Assessments of conservation status at the European level (all biogeographical regions - EU25)

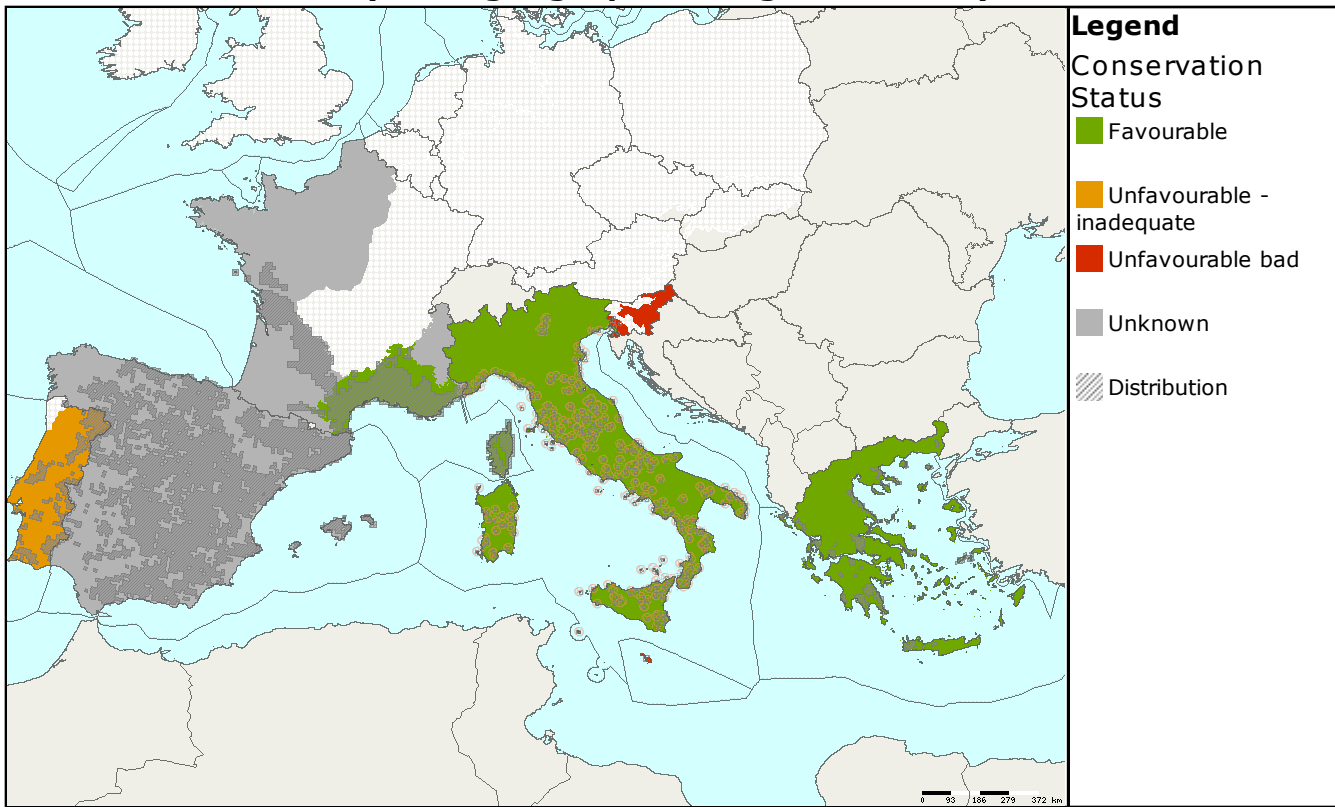

MS	Biogeographic Region	Conservation status assessment					Km ²	Trend in area
		Range	Area	Structure & function	Future prospects	Overall
EU25	ALP						268	+
EU25	ATL						398	X
EU25	CON						94	=
EU25	MED						>20708

Relatively widespread holm oak (Quercus ilex) forests of the cooler parts of the Mediterranean region, often in the mountains, and southwest France and Quercus rotundifolia (also known as Q. ilex ssp rotundifolia) dominated woodlands of the Iberian Peninsula. They often occur on calcareous soils. Especially in the Mediterranean region these forests are often degraded into open woodlands or even shrub formations.

The conservation status is 'unknown' everywhere except for the Continental region where it is assessed as 'favourable'. The habitat has been assessed as 'unknown' because of the national assessments from Spain and France. In southern and south-eastern Europe the Member State assessments are mostly 'favourable', except for Slovenia and Malta, where the status is 'unfavourable-bad'.
